

Celuform replaces timber and eliminates maintenance costs

Celuform PVC-ue fascia, soffit and cladding have been used to replace dilapidated timber on more than 240 properties in the Bedford area.

A feature of the project is that Celuform Espresso Brown products were used to replicate the original timber finish on key sites.

Specialist contractor, Ella and White, refurbished 120 houses in villages on the outskirts of Bedford, as well as a similar number on an estate in London Road, Bedford.

Both projects are on behalf of Bedfordshire Pilgrims Housing Association.

Danny White, Contracts Director for Ella and White, says "Celuform was chosen for three reasons: competitive price, durability and flexibility. We have used the company's products in the past and have always been pleased with the results.

Because Celuform use calcium organic and tin stabilisers, the products stay white and don't discolour.

Unfortunately, we cannot say the same about PVC-ue products we have used from other manufacturers."

A selection of Celuform's fascia, cladding and soffit were used on the sites, including Esprit, Elite and Conquest.

Celuform offers a wide range of colours to suit all types of house styles and designs. Danny comments, "We used the Espresso Brown finish because it was such a good match to the original timber used on the houses and we had to satisfy planning restrictions. By using Celuform's products rather than timber, we have satisfied the housing association's targets of minimising ongoing maintenance.

The original timber had to be treated and painted on a regular basis, whereas Celuform products have a 15 year guarantee and need only wiping down to make them look as good as new."

Ella and White say that another major advantage of Celuform products are the wide variety of sizes in which they are available. Danny explains, "Celuform is very versatile. When you work on different housing estates with everything from bungalows to flats to semis, you don't want to have to cut and prepare the product on site.

Celuform can provide any size you require – and at competitive prices."
